von Essen group announced plans in February 2007 to open a brand new secure executive aviation terminal for London's vertical gateway at The London Heliport.

This is part of the larger redevelopment of The Thames at Battersea including a riverside hotel and spa, rooftop restaurant and executive business and function suites.

The official inauguration of the new hotel and Heliport development is planned for Summer 2009, coinciding with The Heliport's 50th anniversary, and is currently on schedule to meet this target date.
